

Every Man in His Humor

A Comedy in 5 Acts SCENE,---LONDON PROLOGUE. Though need make many poets, and some such As art and nature have not betterd much; Yet ours for want hath not so loved the stage, As he dare serve the ill customs of the age, Or purchase your delight at such a rate, As, for it, he himself must justly hate: To make a child now swaddled, to proceed Man, and then shoot up, in one beard and weed, Past threescore years; or, with three rusty swords, And help of some few foot and half-foot words, Fight over York and Lancasters king jars, And in the tying-house bring wounds to scars. He rather prays you will be pleasd to see One such to-day, as other plays should be; Where neither chorus wafts you oer the seas, Nor creaking throne comes down the boys to please; Nor nimble squib is seen to make afeard The gentlewomen; nor rolld bullet heard To say, it thunders; nor tempestuous drum Rumbles, to tell you when the storm doth come; But deeds, and language, such as men do use, And persons, such as comedy would choose, When she would shew an image of the times, And sport with human follies, not with crimes. Except we make them such, by loving still Our popular errors, when we know theyre ill. I mean such errors as youll all confess, By laughing at them, they deserve no less: Which when you heartily do, theres hope left then, You, that have so gracd monsters, may like men.
